“ Several years ago I happened to run into Mr. Jensen, who surprisingly remembered not only who I was, but remembered my first name (Lisa) and that it was not the name I was known by. He was quite delighted to hear I had become an adult educator and spent more than a few minutes peppering me with questions about my career. He was a man who devoted his life to providing a quality education to his community, and I stood a little taller when he said he was proud that I also chose to be an educator. JR, you and your family are in my thoughts.
