“ Jason, My dear, sweet nephew. The memories I have of you, I'll treasure forever! From the day you entered this world until the day you left it, I believe God had a plan for you. Your job here is done now and for those of us left behind, we don't always understand-but I have to believe God has you wrapped lovingly in his arms. I pray for the rest of this family, we take comfort in the fact that we will see you again one day! You, Shaw & Grandma Clark will be there to welcome each of us home! You were loved & our lives will never be the same now! Mella, Marcus & Les- lean on and have faith that God will take better care his loving child, Jason much better than any of us ever could! And although your heart's are broken now and the pain you're feeling, seems as though it might consume you. Rest assured in knowing, Jason is at peace now & for reasons we don't always understand, the good Lord has called him home & I want to believe the first words he heard were.. "Welcome home, my son. Job well done!" We loved you dearly and you will never be forgotten! Aunt Shellie, Uncle Jim & cousin's, Michael & Kristopher Masini

“ Jason, I am blessed to have known you best as a child. Before the weight of the world and aging took the laughter and light from your eyes. Remembering you as a fun and lighthearted child is what I wish for your family. You will truly be missed by those that knew you. Les & Mella, I am so heartbroken to hear of your loss. No parent should have to bury a child, let alone two. Please except my sincere condolences on your loss. I'm so sorry.
