“ I keep going into your obituary seeing who’s shared a memory of you, I haven’t yet because it’s hard for me to I’ve known you since you were in diapers, I watched you grow up and spent a lot of time around you, I still can’t wrap my head around why this happened to you, I have a lot of memories with you and of you, like you coming into my kitchen and tapping me on back and just hugging me, or walking in the house and saying “HEY IM HERE” or seeing me out some where and yelling HEY COME HERE AND TALK TO ME WOMAN you were like my brother, for so many years, so many memories, I miss you, I still can’t believe it 😞

“ I remember when you and Lili were on the back porch playing and laughing those mischievous laughs. You guys were pushing each other in the big mop bucket. I couldn't contain my laughter! We had so much fun when your cousins came to visit from Kentucky. We were always exploring Foundation park and taking pictures. Remember the Civil War reenactments and the first time we stayed in motel you were so excited because it was your first time. You were quick to help anyone who needed help. Oh and I remember at track, you were throwing the shot put and your team was short a runner and we would have to forfeit but you volunteered to run. Bless your heart you came in last but everyone cheered your name! I was so proud of you. I remember the sweetness and compassion you always showed for anything hurting be it family or your favorite pets. I loved you so much and always will. So many memories! One more, I remembered when you were saved and baptized in your pool at home. I find much comfort knowing I will see you again! I imagine you were met by Jesus and all your family.

“ I will always remeber how much he was so over protective of me even tho i was older , he was and will always be his sisters keeper as i will always be my brothers keeper, he was my best friend , my emotional support , he always knew how to put a smile on my face from his goofy personality down to a funky outfit he would show up in . You know you never realize how short of time you actually have with your best friend (aka: my brothers) or a family member untill there already gone , never been apart from him that long till he did time in prison for 2 years was the longest ive ever been away from my baby brother never thought i wouldnt even have an entire year with him before he was gone forever and in person i show streangth for the promise i gave him but deep down im dyeing inside and i know that feeling is never gunna go away i never thought to this day my baby brother would go before me but they say the good ones dye young and its never good bye but see you later . RIP EZ i love you more than i could ever express fly high as you can see you later love your amazing sister in the world.
