“ I did not realize that there was a public time to pay respects to Rance. It is truly telling about a person when you can meet them and spend not but a small amount of time with them and truly mourn them when you find out they have left the Earth. I can't even begin to explain how much my husband and I enjoyed Rance's company. From the moment we met Rance about 2 years ago we knew we had found a gem. There was truly nobody like him nor will there ever be. I will miss him greatly and continue to remember him as the classy unique and lovely individual he was. As well as the man who was very patient with me at trivia nights even though I was zero help to his team since I never knew answers. :)

“ Worked with Rance a long time. With all due honor and respect... one you could be at odds with and still be great freinds. Very sadly missed. Intelligent funny and much wisdom in that man.

“ Oh my, how we will miss Rance. Although we did not see each other regularly, it was always a joy to see him wherever we were. He could light up the room. His humor, his trivia knowledge, his heart - as big as they get.

“ Rance and I became friends in high school. He was an original, marching to his own tune. His "seriously?" look let you know he was not amused, but his smile was infectious. We didn't stay close, but in touch. He added dimension to my life, and I'm glad I knew him. Rest in Peace, friend.

“ In your lifetime you may meet just a few, someone who may be the complete opposite of who you are, but you have a connection, you just click, you can feed off of one another , make each other laugh,and get through the day! This was my co worker Rance Ryan, when I worked at Radiac Abrasives back in '1999. He always knew what to say in his own quirky way, some may have been offended, but his personality was magnetic, he made me laugh, he helped me out if I was having a bad day. I remember him as a fun loving guy, one in a million, Rest in Peace...RRR.
