“ Richard was my best friend in grade school in Central City. I was so excited when I heard he was moving here and he ended up living across from our house which made the friendship only better. I have so many good memories of him so this makes me sad.

“ Dick reminds us just how fragile life is and how often we take our health and the health of others for granted. God saw Dick getting tired, suffering and in pain. He knew that he would never get well on this earth again he closed his weary eyes and gave him rest. It must be a comfort for Nancy to know that she gave her husband the best care that was available-no wife was more devoted. We can only imagine how stressful and difficult his long illness has been for all of his family. Dick will always have a special place in our hearts and we will never forget him...
